HP ElitePad Productivity Jacket incorporates an integrated keyboard and several additional ports, including an SD card reader. The Productivity Jacket allows small business users to utilize the ElitePad in a more traditional way since it features a stand that offers several different viewing angles.

With the Productivity Jacket, you can use your tablet on its own or like a clamshell notebook. You could walk through your store and take inventory on the tablet and then slip on the Productivity Jacket and email your next order from the same machine. Imagine taking photos of your new products and then posting them to your social media pages to discuss features with your customers. However you use it, the Productivity Jacket expands the options to let you get more done in more places.
